

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

Unique data which can identify functions of a client or individual is assigned to the client and thus a server can determine based on this unique data whether the services can be provided or not. Moreover, unique user data is also added for authorization of the user to use the services.